NEW YORK, November 16 .- The Tribune's orrespondent writing from Charleston gives a long list of outrages upon freedmen by the people in various parts of South Carolina. Many negroes have been shot, and others treated in the most cruel manner. In several cases where negroes have been working for a share of the crop, they were driven off after the crop was gathered, without receiving any compensation for their labor. He says there have as yet been but very few contracts made for the ensuing year, planters for the most part preferring to wait and see what system of labor the Legislature may adopt. The Tribune's Fort Smith, Arakusas, cor-mer have acted as attorneys for a dozen to a hundred cases, spending weeks of time here and getting their fees in each case.
